About WriteAPrisoner.com

WriteAPrisoner.com has been successfully connecting inmates with the outside world for over 3 years. Over 10,000 people visit our web site each day - people from around the world who are interested in corresponding with inmates, or who otherwise have an interest in prisoners' rights.

If you feel you have been wrongly convicted or sentenced unfairly but are not sure how to reach out for assistance, we can help. Because of the high volume of traffic on our web site, your voice can be heard by a sympathetic ear.

Legal ads should be detailed and factual. Be specific in your request for assistance. Tell readers exactly what happened and exactly what type of help you think you need. We will forward your legal ad to any agency in your state which we feel may be of service to you. Although we cannot guarantee action on their part, we do make every attempt to share your story with appropriate agencies in addition to the thousands of people who visit our web site each day.

Thousands of men and women have made lasting friendships through our pen pal service. Because many have expressed a need for legal help, we are now reserving a special section on our web site dedicated exclusively to legal ads for inmates who are seeking legal assistance, and completing the attached application is your first step in seeking such assistance.

Should your ad be refused for any reason, a full refund will be sent promptly. We look forward to serving you.

Seeking justice on your behalf.

Legal Ad Guidelines

Your ad may be paid by you or someone else, by check, money order, or online with a credit card. Only you can be featured in the photo. If someone else appears in the photo, please identify yourself. We will remove the image without damaging the photo and return it to you with a printout of your ad.

Numbers do NOT count as words in your 250 word ad. Please refrain from mentioning anyone by name in your ad. Initials are fine. Sexual language is prohibited. No business may be conducted through your ad. Your ad should accurately reflect the nature of your legal dilemma and the type of assistance you are requesting.
